

AMANDA BRICKER

A dual-position athlete with a strong competitive and academic record in the West Coast Conference (WCC). Named to the All-Conference WCC Team and the All-WCC Academic Team, I bring discipline, consistency, and high-level performance both on and off the field. In 2025, I posted a .344 batting average, a .573 slugging percentage, a .966 OPS, and 6 home runs, ranking 8th in the WCC in batting average, 6th in slugging percentage, and 9th in OPS. My background reflects both elite athletic ability and a commitment to excellence, qualities I bring to every training environment.

SOFTBALL LESSONS

I offer offensive, defensive, and pitching lessons in 30-minute or 60-minute sessions, tailored for athletes ages 8-18. Each session focuses on building strong foundational fundamentals, developing proper mechanics, improving body awareness, and sharpening overall softball IQ. Beyond the physical aspects of the game, my lessons emphasize the mental side of softball, helping athletes build confidence, consistency, and stronger decision-making skills. My goal is to create a positive learning environment where young athletes can strengthen their skills, gain a deeper understanding of the game, and develop a solid foundation for long-term growth and success.
